PROJECTS

Farm Size–Productivity Relationship in Bangladesh ↗,

2025

Coursework Research Project

- Conducted an empirical analysis of the inverse farm size–productivity relationship using HIES 2022 data and quadratic regression modeling in Stata, finding that smaller farms consistently outperform larger ones with a 1% increase in farm size associated with a 0.26% productivity decline, and recommending policies that strengthen smallholder input access and rental markets over land consolidation. Supervised by Dr. Mohammad Yunus, Research Director, Bangladesh Institute of Development Studies.

A Case Study on the Business Growth of Pugmark ↗,

Project

- Conducted a qualitative growth analysis of Pugmark, the market leader of inbound tourism in the Sundarbans, Bangladesh, using primary interviews and industry analysis, finding that success stemmed from naturalist expertise, purpose-built vessels, and responsible tourism practices, and recommending knowledge institutionalisation and impact financing for sustainable growth. Supervised by Dr. M. Sayeed Alam, Associate Professor, Department of Business Administration, East West University.
